Official City Council MEETING SCHEDULE

City Council Meetings are held on the first and third Monday of each month at 7 p.m.

Council Study Sessions are held on the second and fourth Monday each month at 5:30 p.m.

Meetings can be viewed live at auburnwa.gov/gatv.

Dear Auburn Magazine Readers,

First, I want to thank everyone who attended either in person or online, our State of the City address this year. The attendance was among the highest it's ever been and it's always so great to see so many of you engaged in local politics and ready to hear a progress report on our great city. We were able to share so much in just a little over an hour. If you didn't get the chance to attend or watch, you can read the full transcript and watch our videos at auburnwa.gov/sotc.

A lot has happened since the last Auburn Magazine found its way to your mailboxes in late December, and so much to come. Those who've lived here a while know – we're about to enter the busy season for Auburn area events! We've got Clean Sweep right around the corner in April, Petpalooza (May), the Farmers Market (June - September), Kids Day (June), and more. Before you know it, the flowers will start sprouting, the leaves will turn green, and our outdoors will be filled with the beauty of all it and of you.

In this issue, our Parks staff share the heartwarming story of the Pioneer Bike Club – an important after-school program for Pioneer Elementary School students. It not only teaches kids how to learn to ride a bike, but also how to gain life-long friends.

Our White River Valley Museum gets to brag a bit about being chosen as one of 24 museums in the nation to attend the Racial Justice and Museums Convening, a program developed by the Smithsonian Institute that's held in Minnesota in April. This prestigious invite is thanks in no small part due to the diverse and interesting histories the museum covers each and every day in our exhibits and public programs. One such exhibit still on display is called "Where Castoffs Go to Heal and Grow: The Art of Marita Dingus." It features 40 pieces spanning her long career, where she reflects on what it means to see black faces in historic spaces where they've traditionally been excluded.

In this issue we're also sharing some information about the Auburn Avenue Theater, and its planned demolition later this spring. By the time you read this, it's possible it's already happened – that's how quickly things are moving! As I mentioned at our State of the City, the demolition is very bittersweet for me. So many fond memories of times spent at that theater.

And lastly, our cover story this issue is about Z Street Coffee, a wonderful local brewing company run by Jeff and Diane Pechacek. This amazing couple swooped in just in the nick of time after our Senior Activity Center found itself in a bind in February 2023, when the center's longtime lunch vendor began longer providing coffee for our seniors. Out of the goodness of their hearts, Jeff and Diane filled the gap immediately. And they didn't charge a dime. I really hope you stop and take a moment to read this uplifting story about Auburn companies helping Auburn neighbors!

Thank you for reading our magazine and thank you for calling Auburn home. I hope you find a story within these pages that speaks to you, brings you joy and a sense of belonging, and I hope you're already looking for our next issue in the summer!

With warm regards,

Nancy Backus

Learning lifelong lessons at Pioneer Bike Club

By Jonathan Glover, Communications Manager

Some things in life are never forgotten. When it comes to a seat, handlebars, pedals, two wheels and a chain, a sense of balance and momentum -- a childlike wonder transitions into adult fascination, ubiquitous with longevity. After all, anything can be like riding a bike. Especially the exact thing.

Just ask the peppy group of 3rd through 5th graders at Pioneer Elementary School, who soon this spring, will spend several afternoons a week riding the trails, bumps and curves of Cedar Lanes Bike Park. It's all part of the City of Auburn's Pioneer Bike Club, an after-school program meant to not only give kids something to do after school, but also teach them how to ride. And how to ride well.

"It means happiness," said 8-year-old Obed, who minutes earlier was winding his way down a tricky s-curve.

The program is funded through a King County Youth Sport Grant. The KCYSPG supports additional free bike programming at Cedar Lanes including: Summer Ride program, REC Riders, Pedal Power Learn-to-Ride program for the Auburn School District ECEAP Preschool and Transitional Kindergarten and community events.

Cedar Lanes Park – tucked away in South Auburn behind homes and aptly named elementary school – is a unique combination of native woodland, well-kept lawn, and lively playground. Dominating the landscape for many months, a multi-phase, under-construction bike park, set to be finished in the spring.

The bike park includes a new bike skills park, constructed by the City of Auburn in partnership with Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance. The clever system of trails and skills courses blend masterfully with the bushy green and dense foliage. If you didn't know what it was, you'd assume it had always been there.

Phase one was completed last summer, with phase two – the pump track set to open in April. And then, a new restroom facility and picnic shelter later this summer.

How to sign up?

At this time, Bike Club is open Pioneer Elementary School students only. Online sign up information is provided to 3rd-5th grade teachers to share with their students. Enrollment is on a first come, first served basis. Check out the rest of the Bike Program lineup this Spring at auburnwa.gov/bike

Kjerstin Lange- klange@auburnwa.gov

Along the same time as the park's new bike course, the City of Auburn premiered the Pioneer Bike Club, featuring about 40 kids from Pioneer Elementary. Staff meet with kids at school and then walk them to the park each day of the program. All participants are given a journal and record how they feel that day, what goals they want to work on, and how they might get there.

And then from about 3:15 to 5:15 p.m., they can be found out and about mastering the curves.

Many of the kids had never ridden a bike before, especially not on dirt trails.

"Most of the kids were not great riders," said Recreation Coordinator Kjerstin Lange, who manages the program. "And as you can see, they are now easily circling the trails." She continues, "Getting kids active in the park is great; especially for those who are learning to ride a bike for the first time. But that's not all that Bike Club is about. It builds confidence in kids and empowers them to try new things. It gives them a community outside of their family and their school where they belong. And it lets them just be kids!"

The program is set to pick back up in spring, with additional courses this summer, meant for kids two and a half to 17. They'll teach bike safety, how to ride, and how to master everything in-between.

For Lori Hawkins, mother of spry 9-year-old Connor who just "loves riding bikes," the program makes sense – help parents get their kids' energy out after school? And teach them a lifelong skill? Something this sensible is hardly forgotten.

"I love it," she said, turning her head to glimpse the passing of neon green helmets half a football field away. "He can come here and just ride."

Bike programs will be available to the entire Auburn Community this spring and summer. Join Auburn Parks as the Pump Track officially opens on Saturday, May 11 from 10 a.m.-noon. Coaches will be available for instruction, bikes and helmets will be available for check out, vendors and more! Check out Summer Ride- a free drop-in program held in partnership with Cycle Therapy Racing, July 9th-Aug. 16 on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5-8 p.m. Summer Ride will offer a free 30-minute skills workshop and open riding in the park with coaches on hand to offer instruction. Bikes and helmets will be available for check out with the completion of a waiver. For the full program lineup visit auburnwa.gov/bike

Including Diverse Voices at the White River Valley Museum

By Rachael McAlister, Museum Director

The White River Valley Museum was recently chosen as one of 24 museums in the nation to attend the Racial Justice and Museums Convening developed by the Smithsonian Institute and held in Minnesota in April 2024. The White River Valley Museum features the diverse and interesting histories of Auburn through exhibits and public programs.

Racial History of Auburn Tours

These tours center around the diverse history of Indigenous peoples, immigrants, and colonist settlers in the Valley. The Museum explores topics like Japanese incarceration during WWII, the formation of Indian reservations, redlining, and racist labor union practices on a hyper-local level – using primary documents, maps, and photos from the Museum’s collection. Since beginning these tours in 2021 the Museum has toured all City of Auburn employees and much of the Auburn Police Department. The tours continue now for outside agencies and businesses and is offered as a public program throughout the year.

Black in the Valley Online Exhibit

Is there Black History in Auburn? Yes, yes there is. Black settlers came into the region as early as 1870 working alongside immigrant laborers in hops and potato fields. Black Americans in the region did not have it easy; they were exploited as scabs in the railroad industry, pushed out of the housing market by redlining, and forced to live amongst the Ku Klux Klan. See the full online exhibit to learn more about Black History in the Valley at wrvmuseum.org.

Sea to Stream Field Trip Program

Every fall the Museum tours over 2000 students at the Mary Olson Farm. On Sea to Stream field trips students learn about salmon and conduct field science alongside trained naturalists from the Environmental Science Center. This program moves outside of typical STEM by incorporating Native voices and traditional ways of knowing. Students learn about Native fishing practices, the gifts of native plants, and get to sample traditional nettle tea and make nettle cordage. These field trips are offered free of charge thanks to funds raised at the Museum’s annual gala and funding provided by 4Culture and the King Conservation District.

Where Castoffs Go to Heal and Grow: The Art of Marita Dingus on exhibit through May 26, 2024

The Museum partnered with nationally recognized artist and Auburn native Marita Dingus for their current exhibit. The exhibit features 40 pieces spanning Dingus's career. These sculptures fill the Museum's gallery space reflecting both the indoor and outdoor experiences of visiting Dingus's family home, now turned artist's studio in Auburn. Dingus's art is also displayed in the Museum's permanent exhibits inviting visitors to contemplate what it means to see black faces in historic spaces where they have traditionally been excluded. Conversely guests can ponder what histories the Black community shares with the historic people they are placed beside.

Dancing with our Ancestors on exhibit June 19 - Oct. 13, 2024

The Japanese community has played a large role in the history of our region and their culture is woven into the fabric of the Valley today. One of the largest cultural celebrations for the local Buddhist community is Obon, or just Bon for short. This festival celebrates the deceased and is a way for participants to connect with their ancestors through dance. This summer the Museum will feature a new exhibit in partnership with the White River Buddhist Temple that explores the food, fashion, and dances of Obon right here in Auburn.

Downtown Auburn Revitalization Efforts Main Street Infrastructure and Auburn Avenue Theater Reconstruction

By Julie Krueger, Arts and Events Manager

Over the course of the next few years, the City of Auburn will continue efforts to re-vitalize Downtown Auburn with the Downtown Infrastructure Improvements Project.

This project will replace infrastructure on Auburn Avenue and East Main Street that is at or near the end of its useful service life, make streetscape improvements that help create a welcoming environment, and start the planning and design process to replace the Auburn Avenue Theater. Replaced infrastructure includes water, sewer, and storm utilities, roadway pavement, and sidewalks on East Main Street from Auburn Avenue to B Street SE (B Street Plaza) and on Auburn Avenue from 1st Street NE to East Main Street. The project will also replace the traffic signal at East Main Street/Auburn Avenue.

The existing Theater was structurally damaged at the end of 2021 and subsequently condemned in January 2022. The damage was due to the demolition of an adjacent building, which was the result of a fire in July 2021 that destroyed the apartment building and several businesses. Significant structural issues have resulted in the decision to demolish the existing Auburn Avenue Theater and rebuild a new Theater.

In fall of 2023, as part of the overall downtown infrastructure project, Auburn requested proposals for design services from qualified consultant firms. After a thorough review and evaluation of the proposals Otak Inc. was selected to provide architectural and engineering design services for delivering this project.

Business Impacts:

Auburn is committed to limiting inconveniences and impacts to residents and local businesses because of construction. During construction, access to downtown businesses will be maintained.

Auburn Avenue Theater Project Components:

- Theater Demolition: The City is preparing a separate contract to demolish the existing Theater. Demolition likely occurs in the spring of 2024.
- Theater Redesign: Otak will advance the City's current conceptual design to a preliminary design document for a new 290-310 seat (up to 10,300 SF) performing arts theater. This will allow the design team to develop an opinion of probable construction costs for future budget planning purposes.
- New Theater Construction: Full design and construction costs to rebuild the Auburn Avenue Theater is not secured or part of this current project; however the City will continue to seek additional funding sources as this project progresses.

Funding:

Theater Demo and Schematic Design:

$228,200 (insurance claim reimbursement)
$100,000 (King County Grant)

Theater Detailed Design & Construction – Secured Funds:

$1,498,650 (WA State Grant)

Additional Theater Funding Options/Opportunities – Ongoing Efforts

- Additional Grants
- Park Impact Fees
- ARPA Funding Reallocation
- Real Estate Excise Taxes
- Bond Issuance

Timeline:

- Existing Theater Demolition: Spring 2024
- New Theater 30% Design: Summer 2024
- New Theater Cost Analysis: Summer 2024

Downtown Infrastructure Components:

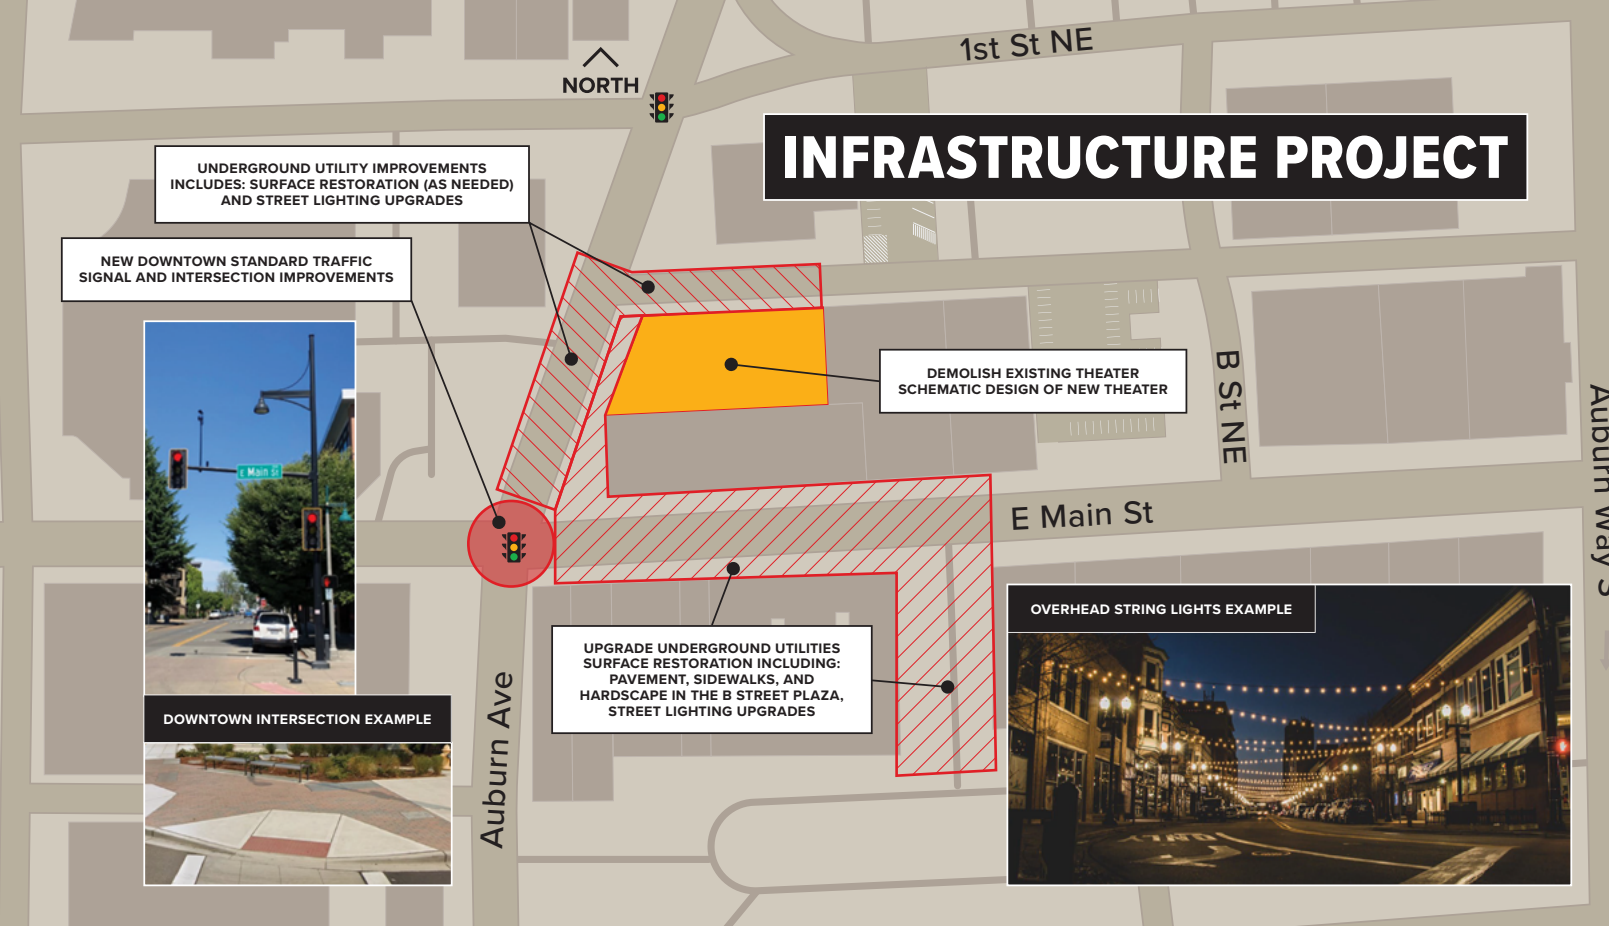

- Utility work includes approx. 600 LF of new sanitary sewer, 500 LF of new water main, 150 LF of underground overhead power and communications facilities, replaced traffic signal, 3300 SY of full roadway, sidewalk, and plaza areas, pedestrian scale decorative street lighting, downtown standard street lighting, and an enhanced pedestrian crossing.

Timeline:

- Infrastructure Design Completion: Fall 2024
- Infrastructure Construction: Winter 2024/2025-Summer 2025

Funding

$1,100,000 (new traffic signal)
$2,881,866 (utility and roadway/plaza improvements)

Brewing Community: The Heartfelt Journey of Z Street Coffee Roasters

By Special Events and Farmers Market Coordinator Amanda Valdez

For Jeff and Diane Pechacek, the journey of Z Street Coffee Roasters is a tale of love, family, and the pursuit of excellence in every cup. With over a decade of experience under their belt, this dynamic duo has mastered the art of custom coffee roasting, catering to each customer's unique preferences with precision and care.

What began as a humble countertop roaster in the cozy home of Jeff and Diane has blossomed into a beloved local business, fueled by passion, dedication, and a deep-rooted commitment to serving others. Their story is one of grassroots growth and unwavering community support. From experimenting with roasting techniques in their kitchen, to proudly showcasing their craft at the Auburn Farmers Market since 2016, Jeff and Diane have remained steadfast in their mission to provide a local, artisanal alternative to mass-produced coffee.

"Coffee is a challenging business to be in because the 'hard core' bigger companies have a huge loyalty" Jeff explains "We create custom orders, people can pick the bean, the roast and the grind."

From garage to market

Roasting coffee beans at home was purely a fun hobby. Jeff & Diane had always enjoyed making things from scratch so, why not coffee? Fun soon turned into gift giving for the holidays. Before long a full-time job and a new business was underway. Starting a business was no easy feat. Lots of trial and error, research, Auburn incubator classes, and help from Green River College. Searching for the right roaster, then a bigger roaster to meet demands, led to Farmers Markets to spread the word about their unique product. And then eventually moving online to make custom orders for people all over the country.

After success at the Auburn Farmers Market, Jeff & Diane branched out to other local Farmers Markets including Maple Valley and Enumclaw. Not only are they the best custom coffee around, they are also wonderful vendors everywhere they go. They strongly believe that word of mouth is the best way to spread their message and share their positivity and coffee with the community.

You'll see them regularly at local Farmers Markets, giving out samples, talking with customers and referring to other vendors in the area. They actively support their neighboring businesses and thrive off sharing the wealth. They've experienced firsthand the power of people and kindness. They love overhearing comments from passersby, regardless if they make a purchase or not. "Those are the people with the coffee", "Remember them, that was really good coffee" Or another favorite "I was told I should come see you." Z Street is quick to return the compliment to other businesses. They don't see other vendors as competition. They believe we're all in this together and the best way to be successful is to support each other.

An unlikely hero

Beyond the pursuit of business success, the heart of Z Street Coffee Roasters lies in their unwavering commitment to giving back – for no other reason than it's just the right thing to do.

Back in February 2023, Auburn's Senior Center Manager Radine Lozier was notified that Catholic Community Services – the center's longtime lunch provider – would no longer provide coffee as part their program. That meant for the first time in over 45 years, at a place where seniors have come to gather for lunch and converse over something warm, coffee wouldn't be part of the picture.

Radine explains "When you come for lunch, one of the unexpected benefits is socialization. Which is crucial to people's well-being. Enjoying coffee over a meal provides a social connection for this generation."

The significant cultural impact of coffee for Senior Center participants is immense. Radine knew "I had to find a way to bring coffee back to the lunch meal."

Knowing the importance of coffee, Lozier reached out to local roasters asking if they could help. Jeff and Diane answered Lozier's email request within 15 minutes. Jeff replied "You got it. When do we start? We'll provide our top shelf stuff. We might even join the group from time to time, as both my wife and I are over 60." Jeff started delivering fresh roasted beans once a week for the lunch program and the seniors love it!

There was no hesitation about providing for the lunch program, Jeff responded with "Absolutely, seniors need a good cup of coffee too!"

The Senior Center also has a coffee bar in the lobby. For the last 20 plus years, coffee had been purchased from a well-known commercial hospitality company. Coffee was delivered every other month by the case. Lozier noticed that the cost had been increasing rapidly since Covid. She reached out to Jeff for a quote on Z Street Coffee for the Coffee Bar. Their price for weekly delivered locally roasted coffee was substantially less. The Senior Center began purchasing Z Street Coffee in January 2024. It is a hit. Participants love the fresh taste and the fact that it is roasted locally. Jeff is getting to know the seniors as he comes in weekly. Tommy Swanlund, coffee bar volunteer, and Jeff have developed a great relationship.

Radine states, "We are grateful to Jeff and Diane for answering our email and working with us to provide local, fresh roasted coffee at a reasonable price."

A giving heart

Jeff & Diane's dedication to community outreach is matched only by their passion for the perfect roast. With each batch carefully curated to meet the individual tastes of their customers, Z Street Coffee Roasters stands apart as a beacon of quality and customization in an industry dominated by mass production.

As they look towards the future, Jeff and Diane remain driven by their shared vision of spreading joy, one cup of coffee at a time. With plans to expand their reach through wholesale accounts and larger customer bases, they remain committed to upholding the values of integrity, compassion, and top-tier customer service that have guided them from the very beginning.

In a world where coffee culture often feels impersonal and industrialized, Z Street Coffee Roasters serves as a refreshing reminder of the power of passion, community, and a really good cup of coffee. As Jeff and Diane continue to pour their hearts into every roast, their legacy of generosity and excellence is sure to leave a lasting impression on all who have the pleasure of tasting their brews.

Jeff and Diane agree, "We hope to leave a 'good taste' with people," they said. "And hope that inspires others to want to make someone else feel good."

Auburn’s Postmark Center for the Arts: New Free Arts Programming!

By Allison Hyde, Arts Program Supervisor

In September of 2023 the City of Auburn joyously opened the doors to a new downtown arts and culture center, Postmark Center for the Arts. The red brick building was once home to the Auburn Post Office, a historical 1937 landmark building. Programming at the space has included music and dance performances, visual arts exhibitions, literary arts events, art education classes, and other cultural gatherings since its opening.

The Postmark Center for the Arts recently rolled out some exciting new community arts programs! On Wednesday mornings, the Postmark hosts “Artist Drop-in Hours” and on Fridays, hosts both “Drop-in Drawing” and “Drop-in Chinese Gongbi Painting.” These two-hour programs are free to the public and aimed at creating a welcoming gathering space for artists and appreciators to connect, create art, and grow through the shared language of the arts.

Another new arts program is “Poetry at the Postmark,” a free poetry reading series on the first Wednesday of each month from 6:30-8pm, including monthly featured readers followed by an open mic opportunity for those wishing to share their creativity with the audience.

Soon there will be even more opportunities to go to the Postmark for community arts programs! The City of Auburn is looking forward to hosting Second Saturdays at the Postmark - free creative workshops and activities for all ages on the second Saturday of each month. Starting in May 2024, these free hands-on activities will be taught from 1-3pm, with occasional guest artists and performances. As more exciting things take shape, the City of Auburn’s Postmark Center for the Arts aims to make the economic, educational, cultural, and civic benefits of the arts available to all communities by broadening public access to the arts. Please come join us!

Postmark Center for the Arts provides a welcoming space for the community to come together and inspire, collaborate, and grow.

Postmark Center for the Arts Free Arts Programming:

- Poetry at the Postmark - First Wednesday of every month 6:30-8 p.m.
- Second Saturdays - Second Saturday of every month, starting May 2024, 1-3 p.m.
- Artist Drop-in Hours - Wednesdays, 10 a.m.-12 p.m.
- Drop-in Drawing - Fridays, 10 a.m.-12 p.m.
- Drop-in Painting with Amy Sie - Fridays, 10 a.m.-12 p.m.

Don't Wait to INFLATE

Seasonal Spring Tire Care Tip

By Auburn Public Works Department

Put a spring in your car's step with proper tire care! Properly inflated tires help you stay safer on the road when driving on Puget Sound roadways this spring...no winter...no summer...oh, it's spring again! No matter what our indecisive weather does, it's important to check your tire pressure monthly & add air if needed ASAP.

2024 Utility Discount & Rebate Program

The City of Auburn offers reduced utility rates or rebates to seniors 62 years of age or older whose annual income level does not exceed the amount allowed for very low income as defined by the Department of Housing & Urban Income Limits. This discount is also provided within the same financial limitations for customers who are permanently disabled as verified by a physician.

The City of Auburn will be accepting discount and rebate applications during the month of May. Residential customers who pay their utility bill directly to the City should fill out a discount application. Residential customers who do not pay their bill directly to the City, such as a mobile home park resident or apartment resident, should fill out a rebate application.

Applications can be found at www.auburnwa.gov/utilities or call 253-931-3038 Option 2.

Before You Commute: Bike Safety Tips from VRFA

By Kelly Hawks, VRFA Public Information & Education Officer

Bicycles are increasingly being used to commute to work or school, for exercise, or simply for leisure. While cycling is a convenient mode of transportation, it comes with risk. The two bike-related accidents we see most often are falls and collisions with vehicles. You can prevent injuries and minimize the risk of collisions by taking a few precautions.

It is important to know the rules of the road before riding your bike. Ride with traffic and stay as far to the right as possible. Make sure to use the appropriate hand signals, obey traffic lights, come to a complete stop at all stop signs and stoplights, remain alert, and watch for cars and trucks.

It is also important that your bike fits you. It is much harder to control a bike that is too big for you. Your feet should touch the ground when you are sitting on the seat. Check to make sure everything is working properly, including brakes and gears. Be sure tires are tightly secured and properly inflated. Avoid wearing long or loose-fitting clothing that can get caught in chains or wheel spokes. Most importantly, always wear a properly fitted bike helmet to protect your head in case of a fall.

A helmet should sit on the top of the head in a level position. It should not rock forward, backward, or side to side. The rim of the helmet should be one to two finger lengths above the eyebrows. The helmet straps should form a “V” under your ears, with the bottom of the “V” just below the earlobe. The helmet straps must always be buckled when riding and should be snug and comfortable. Open your mouth as wide as possible; if the helmet doesn’t feel snug on your head, tighten the straps, and ensure the buckle is flat against your skin.

Jean Price

July 14, 1963-January 6, 2024

A legacy of love, dedication and selflessness

By Auburn Police Department

The Auburn Police Department is mourning the loss of a beloved member of its team, Records Specialist Jean Price, who passed away on Saturday, January 6, 2024, after battling cancer. Jean's dedication to her work and her commitment to the Auburn Police Department left a mark on everyone who worked with her.

Born on July 14, 1963, in Walla Walla, WA, Jean's life was one of commitment and compassion. In 1988, she married her husband, Steve, with whom she shared 39 years of love and companionship. Together, they raised two daughters, Tamarra and Alexis, who brought immense joy to their lives. Jean's family expanded further with the arrival of five wonderful grandchildren, who she cherished dearly.

Jean's professional journey led her to become a Records Specialist at the Auburn Police Department in 2006. Her dedication to her work was unparalleled, and even as cancer took its toll on her health, Jean remained determined in her commitment to serving her community. Her colleagues often heard her express her desire to return to work, a testament to her strong work ethic and passion for her role.

"No matter what type of day Jean was having, she always had a smile on her face," said Detective Mike McNabb. "Anytime I came to her with a Records-related task or question, she always greeted me by saying, 'Hello Nabby!'"

Despite her demanding job, Jean always prioritized her family and personal interests. She found joy in spending time with her husband, riding her Spyder motorcycle, and listening to Elvis. Her affection extended to her two potbellied pigs, Mater and Maxwell, who she adored, alongside her five grandchildren in which she spoiled with love and affection.

Within the Records Unit, Jean was the backbone, known for her personality and unwavering dedication to her duties. Her presence will be sorely missed, leaving a void that cannot be easily filled.

"I will remember Jean for many things, but the one that stands out is that she was fiercely dedicated to the tasks and projects in her care," said Crime Analyst Joe Ryan. "If she wasn't going to complete something that she normally did, usually for reasons beyond her control, and she knew someone was depending on it, she took it very hard. She was a consistent, reliable presence at our department."

As the Auburn Police Department mourns the loss of Jean Price, they also celebrate the legacy she leaves behind a legacy of love, dedication, and selflessness. Jean's memory will forever remain in the hearts of her family, friends, and colleagues, serving as a beacon of inspiration for all who had the privilege of knowing her.
